

Global Health Security 2026

9TH - 12TH JUNE 2026
KUALA LUMPUR CONVENTION CENTRE

WELCOME MESSAGE

Welcome to our fourth Global Health Security Conference, hosted in the beautiful city of Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, in June 2026! As we face complex health threats that are increasingly stressed by geopolitical friction and economic pressures, our partnerships and collaborative dialogues are more vital than ever. In today's deeply interconnected world, challenges like climate change, zoonotic diseases, antimicrobial resistance, conflict, and overlapping risks—combined with the social, political, and economic factors that drive poor health, disease exposure, and limited access to affordable care—can at times feel overwhelming. Through this cross-disciplinary event, we are able to bring together diverse stakeholders to exchange knowledge, research, and policy solutions. The bridging of communities ensures openness and continued dialogue, which enables us to collectively foster a safer and healthier global society. Join us in Kuala Lumpur to be part of this important dialogue!

The aim of the Global Health Security Conference is to provide a forum where leaders, researchers, policymakers, and representatives from government, international organisations, civil society, and private industry from around the world can engage with each other, review the latest research and policy innovations, address systemic vulnerabilities, measure progress, and identify solutions for making the world safer and healthier. To that end, our mission is to help foster a genuinely multidisciplinary community of practice that is committed to working collaboratively to enhance global health security and eliminate disease, irrespective of its origin or source.

Exhibiting at Global Health Security 2026 allows you to reach high level professionals, researchers, practitioners and policymakers at the most important global health security meeting in the world. GHS2026 is the platform where global leaders convene to tackle pressing health issues and advance impactful initiatives, leading experts contribute cutting-edge insights, health and security stakeholders build strategic partnerships, and industry highlights pioneering approaches to prevention, protection, and response to emerging global health threats. In 2026, the Global Health Security Conference will continue to serve as a central forum for global dialogue and the development of partnerships that underpin health security. With your help as a Sponsor or Exhibitor you can be an integral part in this high-level conference and your support will enable travel bursaries to be issued to researchers from low- and middle-income countries to attend.

The Global Health Security Conference 2026 will promote a dynamic and contemporary program that will include a mixture of keynote panel presentations, dedicated sessions, and lively discussions and debate on the challenges that impact global health security. The 4-day conference will also include a series of workshops, side events and panels. The GHS2026 steering committee would like to invite you to join and support the Global Health Security Conference here in Malaysia from the 9 June – 12 June 2026, hosted at the Kuala Lumpur Convention Centre.
